AFFAIRS IN GEORGETOWN.

Local News Items Gathered West of Rock Creek.

Dipping in the Potomac near the Chain bridge for herring has been a favorite sport for a large number of people, but owing to the efforts of the police the violators of the law are somewhat timid about pursuing their work. Policeman Hartman of the county mounted force has been stationed in the vicinity of the Chain bridge with explicit instructions to arrest all illegal fishermen. His presence there, it is said, has had a salutary effect so far. He will be kept at the place until the herring season is fully over.

The work on the old Lydecker tunnel is reported to be progressing at a very lively rate, and the three shifts of men, working eight hours each, but covering the entire day and night, are rapidly bringing the tunnel into a condition fit for the use originally intended. While there is considerable being done at the Washington end of the underground pasage, the main work at present is by means of the shafts at Rock Creek and at Foundry branch on the New Cut road.

All Vital Points in the Potomac Flats Case Decided.

CLAIMANTS' CONTENTIONS DENIED

Further Extracts From the Elaborate Decision Given.

THE GROUND COVERED

The opinion of the United States Suprema Court in the Potomac flats case, rendered yesterday, extracts from which were printed in last night's Star, sustains the government side in every vital particular and affirms the decision of the court below. Several minor questions not affecting the main verdict are remitted for further ac-

Under it the Marshall heirs are declared not to have any right or title to the lands in litigation; the claim founded on the Kidwell land office patent is decreed worthless, and the validity of Water street determined finally-all of which was digested in The Star's account.

The pertinent points of the remainder of the opoinion, after the statement of the conclusion that from the first conception of the federal city the establishment of Water street was intended and never departed from, are as follows:

"With this conclusion reached, it follows that the holders of lots and squares abutting on the line of Water street are not entitled to riparian rights, nor are they entitled to rights of private property in the waters or the reclaimed lands lying between Water street and the navigable channels of the river unless they can show valid grants to the same from Congress or from the city under authority from Congress, or such a long protracted and notorious pos-session and enjoyment of defined parcels of land to justify a court, under the doctrine of prescription, in inferring grants."

The opinion states, concerning the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company's claim to riparian rights, as follows:

The Canal Company's Rights.

"It is sufficient now to hold that the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company does not, either as to lots procured from private owners or as to lands occupied under the permission of Congress and of the city authorities, own or possess riparian rights along the line of its canal within the limits of the

"Accordingly, the decree of the court below in respect to the claim of the Chesa-peake and Ohio Canal Company is affirmed. It was, however, found by the court below that there is a small strip of land north of Water street and owned by the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, which lies with-in the limits of the government improvement, the value of which was determined by the court below at the sum of $553.33.

As the United States have not appealed from this part of the decree, and as the Chesapeake and Ohlo Canal Company has not excepted to the finding of the value, it follows that the canal company is entitled to that sum out of the appropriation by Congress as compensation for the occupation by the government of such strip of land."

The next class of claimants, consisting of lot owners' between 17th street west and 27th street west, is considered by the opin-

"All these iots, with respect to which re-"All these lots, with respect to which reparian rights are claimed, lie to the north of Water street, which intervenes between them and the channels of the river. Under the principles already established, no reparian rights belonged to these lots. But some portions of the lots are embraced within the limits of the government plan of reclamation, and for such portions the court below awarded compensation. All of these claimants, save two, have accepted and received the compensation. Richard J. Beall and the heirs and trustees of William Easby have refused to accept the compensation so awarded to them and have appealed."

appealed."

The opinion holds that the court below was right in deciding that "there was a lack of evidence to prove that the registers of squares were contemporaneous with original books which it was the duty of the Commissioners to keep, that the entries were not in their handwriting, nor in that of the commission whose handwriting is proved. any person whose handwriting is proved, and that they have not the quality of a

"The claim of Mr. Beale that he should be allowed interest or rental value for his property which was taken possession of by the United States in 1882 seems entitled to further consideration by the court below." Concerning the claim of the Easby trus-tees, that the decree awarding payment to William Easby's heirs should be amended so as to make the award payable to the trustees, the opinion states; "This controversy does not seem to have been dealt with in the court below, where it probably belongs, and to which, affirm-ing the award in other respects, we shall remit the question."

The decree of the court below in respect to the claim by the descendants of Robert Peter, is affirmed.

Long Bridge to Arsenal. The next class of appellants considered consists of those who claim rights of property on the river front between the Long bridge and the arsenal, deriving title from Notley Young. These are disposed of by the conclusions already reached except in the cases claiming grants to wharves and water fronts. As to these it is held that they have no "rights in fee in the land and water south of Water street. "It is not disclosed in this record whether it is the design of the government, on tak-ing possession of the wharves and buildings belonging to the appellants, to continue them in the use of the public or to super-sede them by other improvements. Whatever may be the course pursued in that respect, it should not deprive the appellants of the right conferred upon them by the act of Congress to have the value of their respective rights, titles, interests or claims ascertained and awarded them.

"As to the method to be pursued in val-As to the method to be pursued in val-uing property of so peculiar a character, the cases of The Monongahela Navigation Company agt. United States (148 U. S., 312), and Hetzel agt. Baltimore and Ohio Rail-road Company (169 U. S., 26), may be use-fully referred to."

Good Effect of the Decision. In conversation with a Star reporter this afternoon District Attorney Davis, referring to the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Potomac flats case, said: "This opinion, following the previous opinion of the Supreme Court in the case of the Potomac Steamboat Company against the Upper Potomac Steamboat Company against the Upper Potomac Steamboat Company, sets at rest the question of the title to the Potomac flats. It is, therefore, a cause of congratulation to both the federal and local governments, as it leaves the water front and the rectalmed lands in the river wholly free * from any embarrassments of conflicting ownership, and the ments of conflicting ownership, and the government is at liberty to do as it may think proper in the premises.

"The further proceedings which the Su-

"The further proceedings which the Supreme Court has directed in the matter are directed in respect of ascertaining and awarding proper allowances to the several individuals who, from time to time, under the claim and in the belief of private owner-ship of the water front, have constructed wharves and erected buildings, for the costs of which the Supreme Court thinks such persons equitably entitled to be reimbursed on the familiar principle of allowance for betterments. This, however, is a matter of very inconsiderable importance in com-parison with the main result, at which I am particularly pleased, as the credit for it really belongs to Mr. Hugh T. Taggart of
